Delmarva Education Foundation's College/Career Access Program (CCAP) is back at Wicomico High School for a second year. Started with grant money provided by the Jack Kent Cooke Foundation, the purpose of the program is to assist high school juniors and seniors in their preparations for college and the work force. DEF-CCAP advisors will aid students in filling out applications for admission to colleges as well as for financial aid and scholarships. Help is also available for completing job applications and resumes.

The DEF-CCAP office at WiHi is located in the media center. Advisors Rhonda Elswick and Theresa Boilon, an Americorps volunteer, will be available during posted weekday hours (see below).

Washington High School will also be hosting the DEF-CCAP program. Paula Johnson, also an Americorps volunteer is the advisor at WHS.

Information and help is offered to all students whether they seek to further their education or start their career.

WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

Currently, advisors at both Washington and Wicomico High Schools are planning Career Days, one day at each of the two schools. This event will give students a chance to learn about a variety of career options. Students will be able to ask questions and discuss with professionals the jobs that catch their attention.

Several colleges and universities will also be invited to the career fair (Dec. 12th at WHS) for those who plan on continuing their education and obtaining a college degree.

The DEF-CCAP staff is hoping to have something to interest every student at the Career Day. Even for those who are not sure what they want to do after high school. Career day will showcase many options for the future and introduce students to some new possibilities.
